

SEARCH BLOG

FLAG BLOG

Next Blog»kurtc1972@gmail.com | New Post | Customize | Sign O

kurt's non-sense blog

A BLOG WHERE POSTS MAKE NO SENSE (OR PURPOSELY MAKE STRANGE SENSE)

saturday, april 19, 2008

what do you do when you like someone?

just thought of something. the german lady has been encouraging me to show my artworks at the coffeehouse where her groups have always gathered. her plan is for me to do a portrait of the owner's daughter, a korean college lady, and then convince her to show my works at the place. i must automatically assume that the plan was designed to harm me, given many group member's intention to rid themselves of me. the first step must not be performed: i must not do a portrait of the owner's daughter; if i do and show it to her, she probably will report me to law enforcement saying i'm harassing her or something like that. i must avoid her like a pestilence in order to stay safe.

obviously the plan to show my artworks at that coffeehouse should be scraped.

may is about to come; is the arrest set to happen in the next 10 days?

it does hurt a little that the german lady is still constantly devising plans to bring me down. human psychology is a strange matter. last night as i saw her standing against the shadow, how fabulous did she appear. this is someone i could give my life for, i thought. and yet, i couldn't do her the simple favor of leaving her alone and leaving her groups of my own accord. i guess liking someone is always a strange mixture of the selfless and selfish components, which when the person doesn't like you back will have to fight each other out. (when the person does like you back, however, the two components can coexist nicely, as your satisfying your wants by having her presence [the selfish part] is at once satisfying her wants by having your presence [the altruistic part].) i'm doing my best at restraining the selfish component and magnifying the selfless component while still leaving myself with something to live on, psychologically speaking. this is why i have surrendered all my info to her, an act clearly not beneficial to my well being!

posted by kurt at 4:09 pm 0 comments

last night's party

so last night the party at paul's (P's) place happened. it was overall pleasant; it was mostly old-timers from the german lady's groups. but the fearful scenario i have described in the previous post might have

blog archive

▼ 2008 (14)

▼ April (14)

what do you do when you like someone?

last night's party

tomorrow night

reflection on others' malice toward me

no house-warming party

more reflections about last night

purpose

movie tonight

sunday worries

another possibility

today is upsetting

how i don't matter at all

sadness talking

daily non-sense

about me

kurt

View my complete profile

happened. there were these two invitees, an asian guy named larry and a german young lady named enkel, boyfriend and girlfriend to each other, new faces i had never seen before. enkel started chatting with me. we spent approximately 15 minutes discussing chinese archaeology, what used to be one of my favorite studies. i was totally impressed because she had such a command of the chinese language and such expertise in chinese archaeology. but afterwards i realized i might have fallen into a trap. you see, the two invitees were very likely especially invited as part of the german lady's groups' "scheme" or "conspiracy" to rid themselves of me (as i have mentioned). after the conversation this pair of boyfriend and girlfriend probably went to law enforcement to falsely report that i was s*xually aggressive toward her even though in reality i did no more than make a few comments about the controversies in chinese archaeology. this is why the pair left when the party had barely begun: mission accomplished, why stick around? now another negative report would have been added to my thick file at law enforcement, further framing me as a dangerous sex-maniac. soon the threshold of negative reports will be reached, and a warrant will be issued for my arrest.

the party's main stable was the showing of this german movie called something like "something about martha". the german lady probably selected the film on purpose, for it was about the relationship of a 8-year-old female "little person" with her aunt. after the movie the german lady can then report to law enforcement that i liked the film because i liked "little people", thus framing me into that most dispeccable entity in the world, p*d*ph*le.

let me make myself clear: i am totally frightened of "little people" and always run away at the sight of them.

another thing is that on this occasion i didn't wear my usual baseball cap. the german lady took several photos of me. she will definitely turn the photos in either for incorporation into new alerts about me or for deposit in my thick file at law enforcement.

like i said, the german lady will cause me great harm one day, probably contributing a major part of the ground for my upcoming life-long imprisonment. but i like her just the same. she will always be the most fabulous person on the planet. maybe a worthless piece of crap like me derserves to be treated like a piece of crap by the german lady.

now imagine if all this were real -- that the nicety of everyone in german lady's groups toward me were genuine and not pretended -- the party is truly what happiness is all about: getting together with your favorite person in the universe and with her friends whose company you enjoy, and having your favorite person give you a bit of her warmth by chatting with you for a little while (a substantive chat of course, not one about superficial things). what more do you want of life? but this happiness will never belong to me! i'll always have to live with the fact that my favorite persons will without exception and completely intentionally all do me great harm eventually.

posted by kurt at 5:36 am 0 comments

thursday, april 17, 2008

tomorrow night

tomorrow night the german lady's group (about 8 people) is going to meet at the apartment of a member of the group, P. when it comes to matter like this, i am always not sure whether it's right for me to go or not, because i'm not sure if the german lady wants me to go or not. if she wants me to go, then this is most likely a trap. that is, another occasion where all members cooperate in german lady's scheme to have law enforcement put me away. if everyone there after the event falsely reports me to the court or to law enforcement, saying i did this bad thing and that bad thing while in fact i was as docile as a piece of furniture, i would have no way to respond because this is at a private place. they said, he said... there is no match. but if this is not a trap and a genuine gathering, the german lady would probably prefer i be absent, as she has always wished. but i just love to go to her events, especially because i can see her, the most fabulous person in the world. it'd be again that paradox, my needs vs. her wish. my wish to always go with her wish because she's the boss always crumbles before the urgency of my needs. i am just not psychologically equiped to genuinely like someone and care for the person's interests.

posted by kurt at 7:30 pm 0 comments

wednesday, april 16, 2008

reflection on others' malice toward me i hesitate to call my cousin cindy a malicious person even though she has been nothing but malicious to me: destroying me in order to advance herself and then ignoring me and/or treating me like a piece of trash once she has achieved her aim through me. this is because she's not malicious toward other people, and her malice is reserved for me only. in short, she sees me as dispensable but does not treat others as dispensable. i certainly cannot judge a person bad in general just because the person is bad toward me. for i am really dispensable because i am a piece of trash and my cousin knows it, along with the rest of my family members.

but in any case, i wouldn't say she has an admirable character in general either.

and so this week i made the mistake of talking to her on the phone about my missing painting and drawings instead of communicating with her through emails on the matter. you see, she must have seen the alert about me also, and it is possible that she may twist our conversation and falsely report me to authority, saying i said something threatening when i did not. this is a possibility because she has the habit of screwing me up for entertainment. i should only communicate with her through emails, the content of which can be retained for future reference.

in the same way i certainly do not judge the german lady "a bad person" just because she's finding ways to screw me up in order to rid her meetup groups of me. what she is doing is completely understandable. if i were her i wouldn't want me in my life either. the german lady is awfully good to other people, and there is no reason why she should treat a piece of garbage such as i am equally as she treats other people. by now just about every body in her meetup groups is participating in her scheme of getting rid of me through reporting to authority or petitioning the court or whatever. that includes ms professor, the other ms professor G, jacqueline, or anybody else. a "conspiracy" against me if you will has emerged in the two meetup groups i participated in. they constantly call me "intelligent" in order to convince the judge in the future to put me away for a longer time and are also always trying to test me about my political orientation too, probably on behalf of law enforcement. everyone in the meetup groups is hiding his or her true intention from me, pretending to be nice to me while secretly planning on dumping me for good. i don't much blame them, and i certainly have no complaint against the german lady. if she doesn't like me, it's through my fault and not hers. the most i can do is trace my disgusting nature back to my mother, who really shouldn't have given birth to a freak of nature such as i am at all.

the german lady's disgust with me despite herself is manifested in subtle ways, such as: she has avoided being in the same picture with me ever since last september when my drama started with showing her "the letter"; and she has never wanted to hear anything about me, about my life, and so on, such that she has no idea what kind of person i am even though i have been in her groups for almost a year now.

other minor developments: that god-damned matrix.com or whatever has been sending me these god-damned liberal garbages called something like watchman 666 reports. i blocked his email address and still this god-damned liberal finds way to go around it and continues to send his trash to me. and then there is a certain rodney dassis or whoever who sent me a spam two days ago all in portuguese and i have no idea what the god-damned spam is about. watch out for emails of malicious intention.

posted by kurt at 8:51 pm 0 comments

tuesday, april 15, 2008

no house-warming party

another possible reason why the german lady does not want any house-warming party at my place is that the police or homeland security may have been sharing with her surveillance videos of me in my apartment, and that she therefore knows how dirty and messy the place is. she probably won't want to sit anywhere or touch anything in my apartment even if i'll certainly do a thorough clean-up for the party.

posted by kurt at 9:53 pm 0 comments

more reflections about last night

so watched the psychotic film "dark matter" last night. another reason i can think of as to why suddenly so many people from the group decided to come to the screening of this ugly film is that the german lady might have asked them all to come to serve as a buffer between her and me. it always makes me sad when the person i like always wants my disappearance or invisibility.

the people that tried to harm me through my ex-best friend are probably kind of surprised and annoyed that i am always aware of their plans to get me. what they don't understand is that their plans are so noticeable because one attempt follows another so closely in time; the endeavor is constant. if i were them i would just stop the effort for 6 months to a year, during which time the target's defense will gradually wane down as he sees nothing happening at all day after day, and then come in for a strike at a time when his defense has already been dropped.

another development: last night at the movies ms. professor of film and french showed up too, after such a long time of absence. she brought back a relaxing atmosphere, although it's quite possible that she's in on german lady's scheme about me also. but G, another german prof who is a good friend of the german lady, didn't show. she would be your good confidant (despite the fact that she's also part of the scheme) if you happen to have the chance.

posted by kurt at 5:21 pm 0 comments

monday, april 14, 2008

purpose

i think the purpose of getting so many people to go to the movie event tonight is to gather more witnesses of my having watched the movie. the testimony will be more solid if 10 people all report that i have seen the film and.... (see yesterday's post).

i feel sad; this means everyone at german lady's group is cooperating to get rid of me.

misfortune is coming soon....

posted by kurt at 3:53 pm 0 comments

Older Posts

Subscribe to: Posts (Atom)